

AOPA Flight Training 2008 College Directory

AOPA Flight Training is pleased to present its 2008 College Directory. It lists colleges and universities in the United States that offer associate's, bachelor's, or master's degrees in aviation fields. The directory shows the degree type(s) offered as well as subject areas; for more specific information we suggest that you visit the schools' Web sites. You can access AOPA Flight Training's college database—as well as direct links to each listed school—online (<http://ft.aopa.org/colleges>).

Looking for scholarships or other financial aid? Most colleges and universities offer a variety of scholarships and loans. Be sure to check AOPA's updated listing of aviation scholarships (www.aopa.org/members/files/topics/aviation_loans/scholarships.html). For other ideas—and tips for submitting the best scholarship applications possible—see our helpful suggestions (<http://flighttraining.aopa.org/learntofly/financing>).

If you're interested in learning to fly or upgrading your pilot certificate and already have a degree, or if college isn't the route for you right now, check out our online flight school directory (<http://ft.aopa.org/schools>).—The Editors
